

studies in development and synthesis of new materials for the construction of a new generation of materials